

Sébastien Soriano, Chairman, ARCEP – Autorité de régulation des communications électroniques et des postes

Sébastien Soriano, was appointed Chairman of ARCEP (Autorité de régulation des communications électroniques et des postes) on 15 January 2015, for a six-year term.

Born in 1975, Sébastien Soriano is a chief engineer from the Ecole des Mines (the French national school of mining engineers) and a graduate of the Ecole Polytechnique. He spent most of his career in competition and telecoms regulation before becoming, in 2012, the Head of Fleur Pellerin's cabinet - the then French Minister for SMEs, innovation and digital economy. Prior to joining ARCEP, he was Special Advisor to the French Minister for Culture and Communication.